

INSIDE

4 Points: Your guide to weekend entertainment

SPORTS

Celtics one win away

Page 15

INDEX

Business.....58	Horoscope.....60
Classifieds.....61	Nation.....26
Colorado.....24	Scoreboard.....20
Comics.....59	Sports.....15
Crossword.....59	ViewPoints.....8
Happenings.....7	World.....51

Limbo beat

MATT STENSLAND/STAFF

Doak Walker Care Center resident Judy Brooks is pushed in her wheelchair past a limbo pole Thursday by certified nurses aide Priscilla Mader during the annual Doak Walker Senior Olympics. Also pictured is certified nurses aide RaeAnn Cook, left, and SportsMed physical therapist Kay Sterling.

Board to review conduct

School official DeVincentis may have violated policies at Monday meeting

Zach Fridell
 PILOT & TODAY STAFF

STEAMBOAT SPRINGS

In the wake of Monday's contentious Steamboat Springs School Board meeting, questions remain about the ethical behavior of board members and how that behavior could impact the school district.

Monday's lengthy meeting culminated in the nonrenewal of Steamboat Springs High School Principal Mike Knezevich's contract, by a 3-2 School Board vote. During the proceedings, which included much public discussion of Knezevich's tenure and the status of his contract, School Board member John DeVincentis accused fellow board member Laura Anderson of improperly meeting with critics of Knezevich before the meeting.

But DeVincentis' comments, made in open session, might have violated the School Board's code of conduct.

According to board policy, any board member who has concerns about another board member must express the concerns in executive session, and only after repeated violations can the accusations be made public.

Although Anderson denied the allegations Monday, DeVincentis said he filed a letter to "the state ethics committee" to review Anderson's actions. Knezevich said Tuesday that he planned to "see where this goes," referring to the letter and its possible ramifications — such as a state review of

See Board, page 12

LOTTO

Thursday night's Cash 5 numbers: 6-10-11-20-24
 Drawings are held Monday through Saturday.

WEATHER

Warmer with plenty of sunshine. High of 68.

Page 2